Heard and Felt an Hour Afterward.

From the Bochester Democrat.

On Sunday morning, about four o'clock, several people in this city were awakened by a iong roar and trembling of the earth. A gentleman residing in Vick Park heard the roar, and took the precaution to examine the furnace in the cellar, fearing that an explosion of gas had occurred. There was not explained until the report of an explosion of nitroglycerine at North Clarendon. Pa. was telegraphed from Tituswille. Several magazines, containing in all ten fone of nitro-glycerine, excluded Sunday morning shortly after 3 o'clock. It appears that the noise and vibration of the earth was nearly an hour travelling from North Clarendon to Rochester. The trembling and roar had all the characteristics of an earthquake, and those who were awakened by it were somewhat disappointed because no earthquake was reported.
